Dear Professor Lederberg,

You may recall the change of letters we had a few years ago when you were in contact with me about our estimate of the equivalent cost of one manrem. It is difficult to find any geneticist who has given the social cost/benefit assessment of radiation as thorough thoughts as you have and it is only natural that I was thinking of you when I wish to have some comments on nuclear power from the geneticist's point of view. I think that the enclosed circular letter is self-explanatory and I hope that you might agree to respond. Your reply would be highly appreciated.

Sincerely yours,

Bo Lindell
